DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Filippini et al 2004/1076263 in view of Watkins et al 4775489.

Filippini discloses a composition comprising a dipentene, linear alcohol, and a solvent comprised of naphtha; a product formed from the reaction of olefin and anhydride; and a surfactant. The composition of Filippini is not disclosed for use in a well. Watkins discloses a dipentene, naphtha, alcohol and surfactant stimulant that is pumped into a wellbore to dissolve paraffin. Dissolving of paraffin is a method of stimulating a petroleum well. The composition of Filippini can be used to dissolve wax from a substrate. Since paraffin is a wax, it would have been considered obvious to use the composition of Filippini in a well for removal of paraffin as taught by Watkins since paraffin is a form of wax. As to claims 2,4,5,7 and 8, the exact amount of each material used in the composition would have been considered an obvious design choice arrived at by routine experimentation since the amount of each material used to optimize performance is directly proportional to the formation characteristics. As to claim 3, the alcohol is a non-ionic surfactant. As to claim 6, the solvent comprises isopropyl benzene and vinyl acetate. As to claim 9, the surfactant comprises propylene oxide and ethylene polymers.

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement filed 10/4/04 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(1), which requires the following: (1) a list of all patents, publications, applications, or other information submitted for consideration by the Office; (2) U.S. patents and U.S. patent application publications listed in a section separately from citations of other documents; (3) the application number of the application in which the information disclosure statement is being submitted on each page of the list; (4) a column that provides a blank space next to each document to be considered, for the examiner's initials; and (5) a heading that clearly indicates that the list is an information disclosure statement. The information disclosure statement has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 10-27 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 28-42 are allowed.
